How IFGICT Developed and Applied an SDG Audit on a European Client

SDG Standard

The International Finance & Green Climate Technology (IFGICT) is an organization that helps businesses implement sustainable practices.

According to the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) established by the United Nations, there are 17 goals businesses can strive to achieve to contribute to a more sustainable future. These goals include goals like poverty eradication, zero hunger, and clean water and sanitation.

IFGICT has developed a Sustainable Development Standard to help businesses measure their progress towards these SDGs. This standard includes a framework for conducting a sustainability audit, which helps businesses identify their strengths and weaknesses in terms of sustainability.

Let's consider a client of IFGICT in Europe, Acme Inc. Acme Inc. wanted to improve its sustainability practices and achieve SDG certification. IFGICT worked with Acme Inc. to develop a customized SDG audit plan that aligned with Acme Inc.'s specific goals and industry.

The IFGICT audit team conducted a comprehensive assessment of Acme Inc.'s operations, including its energy use, waste management, and supply chain practices. The audit team also interviewed Acme Inc.'s employees to get a better understanding of the company's sustainability culture.

The SDG audit helped Acme Inc. identify a number of areas where it could improve its sustainability performance. For example, the audit found that Acme Inc. could reduce its energy consumption by upgrading its lighting systems. The audit also helped Acme Inc. to develop a plan to source more sustainable materials for its products.

After implementing the recommendations from the SDG audit, Acme Inc. was able to achieve SDG certification from IFGICT. This certification has helped Acme Inc. to attract new customers and investors who are looking for sustainable businesses to partner with. SDG certification has also helped Acme Inc. to improve its brand reputation and employee morale.

SDG certification has also helped Acme Inc. to improve its brand reputation and
